

Dave L. Miller
Regional Coordinator for Latin America
Global Missions of the Church of God

I would like to add my recommendation... with regard to Karvin Adams and Partners in Missions, an organization he and his wife Sandy founded and direct to support the work of missionaries and national leaders of the Church of God in Latin America.

In September 2005, when we were new as Regional Coordinators for Latin America, Karvin invited my wife Barbara and I to accompany him on a short-term mission trip to the San Blas Islands of Panama, where Partners in Missions has been working for several years with native Americans of the Kuna Yala culture. Karvin's ministry to the Kuna—as well as in other areas of the region where Partners operates—involves congregational development and leader training to serve, not only Church of God congregations on the islands, but an interdenominational community of evangelical churches, as well.

We find Karvin and Sandy to be committed to long-term service to the growing church in Latin America. They are sensitive students of local culture and appreciate the complexities of working cross-culturally in the region. Karvin regularly consults us on plans or programs that intersect with our work as Regional Coordinators. This is not just a courtesy. He believes, as do we, that open and candid communication between Partners in Missions and Global Missions is essential to the success of our corporate efforts to fulfill the Great Commission in this key area of the world.

Karvin, son of a Church of God pastor in LA., was converted at the age of 8. His interest in Native Americans began shortly after. He received a call to ministry while in his teens. He is a graduate of Gulf-Coast Bible College (now Mid-America Christian University).

Sandy, who was also raised in a Church of God family in N.E. LA., was converted at the age of 10.

Since 1981, they have served as pastors and as missionaries to Ecuador. In January 1997, they founded PiM which focuses on the Indigenous Peoples of the Americas.

The Adams have a son, a daughter and 7 grandchildren.

"It was a joy to participate with Partners in Missions in our recent trip to Quito, Ecuador. We were able to witness the love and admiration that the Christians in Ecuador have for Pastor Karvin Adams. His missionary work is a wonderful blessing to many Christians in Latin America."
