

Dave L. Miller, Former Regional
Coordinator for Latin America
Global Missions of the Church of God

I would like to add my recommendation... regarding Karvin Adams and Partners in Missions, an organization he and his wife Sandy founded and direct to support the work of missionaries and national leaders in Latin America.

In September 2005, when we were new as Regional Coordinators for Latin America, Karvin invited my wife Barbara and I to accompany him on a short-term mission trip to the San Blas Islands of Panama, where Partners in Missions has been working for several years with native Americans of the Kuna Yala culture. Karvin's ministry to the Kuna-as well as in other areas of the region where Partners in Missions was involved in congregational development and leader training to serve, not only Church of God congregations on the islands, but an interdenominational community of evangelical churches, as well.

We find Karvin and Sandy to be committed to long-term service to the growing church in Latin America. They are sensitive students of local culture and appreciate the complexities of working cross-culturally in the region. Karvin regularly consults us on plans or programs that intersect with our work as Regional Coordinators. This is not just a courtesy. He believes, as do we, that open and candid communication between Partners in Missions and Global Missions is essential to the success of our corporate efforts to fulfill the Great Commission in this key area of the world.

Karvin, a pastor's son was converted at the age of eight. His interest in Native Americans began shortly after. He received a call to fulltime ministry while in his teens. He is a graduate of Gulf-Coast Bible College (now Mid-America Christian University).

Sandy, who was raised by a Christian mother in northeast Louisiana, was converted at the age of ten.

Since 1981, they have served as pastors and missionaries. In January 1997, they founded PiM which focuses on the Indigenous Peoples of the Americas in Leadership Development and care for abused/abandoned children.

They are proud parents of Marc who is a pastor, daughter Karla who works in her church's office and seven grandchildren.

His two books are on Amazon.com
